

How to comply with our open access policy

Use the Journal Checker Tool to see which route you can use for your preferred journal. Then follow the process below.

Add this text to your manuscript before submission:

“This research was funded in whole, or in part, by Wellcome [Grant number]. For the purpose of open access, the author has applied a CC BY public copyright licence to any Author Accepted Manuscript version arising from this submission”

Submit manuscript

Route 1: Publish in an open access journal

- The publisher will deposit the version of record open access in PubMed Central/Europe PubMed Central
- A publishing fee is paid; costs are supported by Wellcome

Route 2: Publish in a subscription or hybrid journal that does not have a transformative arrangement

- You deposit your author accepted manuscript open access in Europe PubMed Central plus
- No publishing fee is paid

Route 3: Publish in a subscription or hybrid outlet which has a transformative arrangement

- The publisher will deposit the version of record open access in PubMed Central / Europe PubMed
- A publishing fee is paid; costs are supported by Wellcome

- The ‘version of record’ is defined as the version of a journal article that has been made available by any organisation that acts as a publisher by formally and exclusively declaring the article published
- The ‘author accepted manuscript’ is the version of a manuscript that has been peer reviewed and accepted for publication by a journal. This version should include all changes made during the peer review process.
- Transformative arrangements include “transformative agreements” and “transformative Journals”. Under a transformative agreement, Wellcome contributes to the ‘publish’ element of read and publish deals. Within a transformative journal model Wellcome will fund the article processing charges, via the open access block grants it makes to institutions, or by supplementing a researchers’ grant.
